Dump full.An extraordinary document has gone missing from the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia's presidential archives and what it reveals could be the most explosive story of the Arab Spring yet. The document, which has gone missing and is entitled The Decision for Economic Reform, was compiled by the late King Abdullah and his late father, King Abdulaziz, in 1991. The letter, recently declassified after 10 years, warns of the dangers of an economic liberalisation, warns about growing discontent and comes just as Saudi Arabia was approaching a crucial moment in its history, the death of Abdullah. It also spoke about a country in the throes of its own turbulent transition 1cdb36666d
